Introduction

GrantSolutions Project Assignments

Introduction: What is Project Assignments?

- Project Assignments are used to assign Federal and Contract staff to a Grant project portfolio. After Project Assignments are complete, users can perform actions to move an application or grant modification forward in the workflow.

Introduction: Benefits of Project Assignments

- Drives email notifications. Once assigned, Federal and Contract staff:
 - Receive email notifications when they need to perform a task for a Grant project
 - Receive email notifications to view Correspondence Notes for a Grant project
- Simplifies Searching
 - When a project assignment is made, users can easily search for their workload by utilizing the advanced search screens
 - Example: *Application Recommendation and Grants List Screens – Criteria: Assignment Type, Filter: My Applications/My Grants or My Primary Grants
- Tasks available are on the GrantSolutions Portal Task List if a user has Primary Project Assignments

Introduction: Who can have a Project Assignment?

- By default, the Grants Management Officer (GMO) listed on a Funding Opportunity Announcement is automatically assigned to the grant project. A GMO must always be assigned to a grant project.
- Users may assign themselves to an application or grant within their office
 - Program Office staff may only add or remove project assignments for other Program Office staff
 - Grant Office staff may add or remove project assignments for other Grant Office staff, Program staff, and grant recipients

Note: It is best practice for Grantors and Contract staff to make project assignments early on in the workflow.

Primary Project Assignments

What are Primary Project Assignments?

- Primary Project Assignments identify the user ultimately responsible for performing a task
 - A task is displayed on the Portal Task list for users with Primary Assignments
- Only one user can have the Primary assignment per role
 - Multiple staff members with the same role can be assigned to the same grant project
- Users may change the primary assignment on the Project Assignments screen

Project Assignment Screen – Primary Assignment Indicator

- The P icon indicates the user has a Primary Project Assignment

Note: If another user is selected as the Primary, when clicking the checkbox for a new user with the same role, the system automatically removes the Primary assignment for the previous user.
